Thank you for the opportunity to work with you to promote accountability, integrity and openness in government. The Office of the Washington State Auditor takes seriously our role of providing state and local governments with assurance and accountability as the independent auditor of public accounts. In this way, we strive to help government work better, cost less, deliver higher value and earn greater public trust.

Independent audits provide essential accountability and transparency for District operations. This information is valuable to management, the governing body and public stakeholders when assessing the government's stewardship of public resources.

Attached is our independent audit report on the District's compliance with applicable requirements and safeguarding of public resources for the areas we examined. We appreciate the opportunity to work with your staff and we value your cooperation during the audit.

AUDIT RESULTS

Results in brief

This report describes the overall results and conclusions for the areas we examined. In those selected areas, District operations complied, in all material respects, with applicable state laws, regulations, and its own policies, and provided adequate controls over the safeguarding of public resources.

In keeping with general auditing practices, we do not examine every transaction, activity, policy, internal control, or area. As a result, no information is provided on the areas that were not examined.

About the audit

This report contains the results of our independent accountability audit of the King County Flood Control Zone District from January 1, 2018 through December 31, 2018.

Management is responsible for ensuring compliance and adequate safeguarding of public resources from fraud, loss or abuse. This includes the design, implementation and maintenance of internal controls relevant to these objectives.

This audit was conducted under the authority of RCW 43.09.260, which requires the Office of the State Auditor to examine the financial affairs of all local governments. Our audit involved obtaining evidence about the District's use of public resources, compliance with state laws and regulations and its own policies and procedures, and internal controls over such matters. The procedures performed were based on our assessment of risks in the areas we examined.

Based on our risk assessment for the year ended December 31, 2018, the areas examined were those representing the highest risk of fraud, loss, abuse, or noncompliance. We examined the following areas during this audit period:

- Citizen concern on use of District funds – to determine whether District expenditures, such as payments to homeowner associations (HOAs) and transportation studies, were for allowable purposes
- Citizen concern on approval of capital projects and Capital Improvement Plan – to determine whether projects went through an adequate approval process including Board approval when required
- Citizen concern on District operations – to determine whether the District complied with its own policies and resolutions, such as the fund balance policy and budget resolution

INFORMATION ABOUT THE DISTRICT

In April 2007, the Metropolitan King County Council created the King County Flood Control Zone District. The District provides funding and policy oversight for flood protection projects. Funding for the District comes from a countywide property levy tax of 10 cents per $1,000 assessed value.

King County Council Members are the District's Board of Supervisors. Although the Board is the primary governing body for the District, several committees and project partners work with it. An Advisory Committee of 15 elected officials, representing cities in the floodplain, provides recommendations on the District's work program and budget.

The District contracts with King County for operations. The District also partners with state and federal agencies, such as the Army Corps of Engineers, the Federal Emergency Management Agency, and local governments, watershed groups and tribal governments.
